1. Read and translate the text, answer the following questions

Social work is practised world-wide. The following is a widely accepted international definition: “The social work profession promotes social change, problem solving in human relationships and the empowerment and liberation of people to enhance well-being. Utilising theories of human behaviour and social systems, social work intervenes at the points where people interact with their environments. Principles of human rights and social justice are fundamental to social work

The Statement distinguishes “roles”, based on the broad purposes of social work and the outcomes it enables people to achieve, from “tasks”, the activities required to deliver those purposes and outcomes. Social work has to take account of people’s needs, circumstances and relationships as a whole, rather than focusing on a particular condition or delivering a defined service.

Increasingly, social workers are working in partnership with people to co-produce solutions matched to their strengths and preferences, and jointly securing the best possible outcomes.

1. What definition of social work is accepted?
2. Where does social work intervene at?
3. What are the fundamental to social work?
4. What has social work to take account?
5. What people are social workers working in partnership with?

Getting a job is a very hard period in the life of most people. Companies choose an employee from hundreds of candidates according to special rules, that is why there are special "typical" factors, influencing on employer’s choice. Among such factors are: age, sex, experience, family background and marital status, personality and references.

If you are to go to an interview tomorrow, sleep well before it and do not forget your CV at home - is the basic rule. Moreover, there are some recommendations, which can help you. For example, read annual report, or a newspaper of the company to show your understanding of the corporate strategy on the interview. What is more, you should choose corresponding dress code for the interview. Even such advices are to help you make a good impression; some companies do not want to hire a man, who follows every advice. To illustrate this, I can quote

Artemiy Lebedev, the most famous Russian web-designer: "If you enclose a standard stupid resume, written by the rules of American bureaucracy, we would delete it immediately after receiving. If your CV is composed according to all rules, we would not choose you, as we might think, that your profession is to acquire a job".

1. What are the special "typical" factors, influencing on the employer's choice?
2. What do you need if you are going to an interview tomorrow?
3. What are the recommendations, which can help you?
4. What should you choose for the interview?
5. What did Artemiy Lebedev, the famous web-designer say?

1. Read and translate the text, answer the following questions

What is friendship? Some people will say that it is a feeling of mutual liking between two or more people, other will add that it is a state when one person understands and supports the other one.

To my mind friendship can be compared to a tree. Its seed should find good soil and under good conditions it will grow into a tree. As the years go by the tree stands firmer and firmer on the ground. And if it is strong enough, it will survive all the storms and winds. But to help it, we should take care of it and love it.

The most important feeling that exists between friends is trust. It never appears by itself, it's the result of a long friendship and this feeling is very valuable. Respect and tolerance are also very important; it means that you don't criticize your friend's way of living, but try to understand him, discuss problems with him and explain to him what you think is good and what is bad. A friend is a person who can help you in time, lend you any sum of money for a long period of time without any percent, whom you can wake up in the middle of the night just to say you feel worried or who is eager to do everything for you waiting nothing in return, who supports you in all your beginnings and who will never betray you.

1. What is friendship?
2. What can be friendship compared with? And why?
3. What is the most important feeling that exists between friends?
4. What does mean respect and tolerate in the friendship?
5. What person is a friend?

The US. Constitution defines a federal system of government in which certain powers are delegated to the national government; other powers fall to the states.

The national government consists of executive, legislative and judicial branches that are designed to check and balance one another; all are interrelated and overlapping yet each is quite distinct.

Since the Constitution was ratified in 1788, there have been 26 amendments to it. The first 10, known as the Bill of Rights, established a number of liberties. Notable among the other amendments are the 13th, 14th and 15th, which abolished slavery and declared former slaves citizens with the right to vote; the 17th, which provided for the direct election of U.S. senators; and the 19th, which effected women's suffrage.

Amending the Constitution requires a proposal by a two-thirds vote of both houses of Congress or by a national convention.

The executive branch of the government is headed by the president, who must be a natural-born citizen of the United States, at least 35 years old and a resident of the country for at least 14 years. The formal responsibilities of the president include those of chief executive, treaty maker, commander in chief of the army and head of state.

1. What does the US. Constitution define?

Social workers spend their days helping people with complicated psychological, health, social, or financial problems. They assist families in need and people who are the victims of abuse. They provide counseling, advice, and direction for people who would otherwise have no way of bettering their situations. While seeing people who are confused, scared, and beset by problems all day long may sound disheartening, social workers told us that they were uplifted by their job and that they truly felt they were doing work of value. "People need your help and if you're part of the human race, you give it to them," said one, adding, "The only strange thing is that you get paid to do it." Social workers, around half of whom work for local and federal governments, have to be familiar with all assistance programs and services available for those in need. This requires continuing education to keep abreast of programs, their funding, and their efficacy.

While this contributes to the reasonably high attrition rate for first-year workers (15 percent), respondents noted that it was valuable in that it kept them aware of the significance of what they do. More and more, social workers are being asked to find an area of focused responsibility, such as criminal justice issues, gerontological services, or medical issues. This can leave the social worker a bit dissatisfied, as often a client will have a number of concurrent problems, and they have a very prescribed range of duties they can perform.

1. How do the social workers spend their days?
2. What the social workers do for people who would otherwise have no way of bettering their situations ?
3. What do the social workers say about their work?
4. What does the social work require?

The structure of society is usually represented by sociologists as a pyramid divided into three unequal parts:

1. Upper classes (less than 3%) are the social elite who live on inherited wealth and/or have earned high incomes through skills in the professions or business.
2. Middle classes (about 42%) have neither family status nor unusual wealth. They are primarily concerned with "career". They often buy products that are popular, seeking the better brand names.
3. Lower classes (about 55%) include the "upper lowers" (average-pay blue-collar workers and those who lead a "working-class lifestyle", whatever their income, school background, or job). And the "lower lowers"(7%) are poverty-stricken. Often they are not interested in finding a job and prefer "to be on welfare" (receive social security benefit).

Higher education plays a very important role in our life. It is also important for the development of our country. At universities and institutes students train to become teachers, engineers, doctors, architects and other highly-qualified specialists. Average age for getting higher education in Russia is 17. Students may go to university after they graduate from a high school or a college. There are many good universities in our country. I’d like to study in one of them someday. At the moment I’m at the tenth form. I have already chosen a profession that I’d like to learn but not the university yet. I want to become a qualified surgeon. I know that it requires long and thorough training. To become a surgeon one should study for 6 or more years in our country but I’m ready for it. It is also quite difficult to enter a good university. Next year I’m going to prepare for entrance examinations. I will have to improve my knowledge of Biology, Chemistry and Russian language. There are two large medical institutions in my region, so I can choose from one of them. If I pass the exams successfully, I’ll be very happy. Nowadays, there are also some commercial faculties, where students have to pay a fee every year. At first I’d like to get a bachelors’ degree. It will take about 4 or 5 years. However, to become a qualified surgeon I need to study further. I think that choosing a future profession and university is a serious step in every person’s life. Higher education gives many future possibilities. It gives the chance to find an interesting and well-paid job after graduating from the university.

1. What do universities and institutes train to students ?
